

In the season of new life, we invite all to enter more deeply into the celebration of life.

For almost three years we have been livestreaming our Sunday morning mass. We are so happy that technology has allowed us to reach out to people who could not be with us during this challenging time.

Since we are a people of faith in an incarnate God (Jesus), we decided that it is time to invite everyone to come and join us in the flesh for our Sunday masses.

Easter Sunday 2023 will be our last livestreamed Sunday mass.

Moving forward, we will post each Sunday Gospel and homily during the week. We encourage everyone who is able to join us in the flesh so that you all may experience the embrace that is given to us in celebrating Eucharist and receiving the Body of Christ.

We continue to have a "Safety Zone" where social distancing is marked off and masks are required.

Ongoing care for your well-being:

For those who still have safety concerns, we maintain a "safety zone" in the rear of the church on the school side of the building where masks are required, and every other pew is marked off for social distancing.

Our ministers continue to sanitize their hands before sharing the Body of Christ with the congregation, stopping to sanitize again after anyone receives on the tongue.

For those who are really concerned about the crowds, we encourage you (as able) to possibly set aside a weekday as your personal "Lord's Day" and to join a much smaller congregation so that you may more safely celebrate Eucharist in person.

Let's continue to pray for one another.
